- Go through your clothes (like trying them on to see if they fit), books, and anything in the house that you don't use and separate to donate later

5. 2 ways to serve: 1. Put the rice/pasta in a large bowl and add the tuna into it and mix it all together 2. Put the rice/pasta in a large bowl and the tuna in a different bowl, serve separately so you can put the amount of tuna that you want on the rice or pasta

Fun Game for the Family/ Small group gatherings

Scattergories

How to win, be the most creative/unique

Begin each round by picking a random letter (A-Z) and start the timer. You can't use a letter twice in the same game.

Players attempt to create an answer that begins with the letter on the die for each of the categories on their list.

Set a timer for 3 minutes

Answers must begin with the letter that you chose.

Articles (A/An/The) do not fulfill the beginning letter requirement. Instead, the word following the article will be the letter that counts. For instance, if the letter was "W" and the category was "TV Shows," The Walking Dead would count as an acceptable answer; however, the answer would be unacceptable if a "T" had been rolled.

Players cannot use the same answer twice in the same round, even if it would otherwise be acceptable.

Last names can be used first, for example "Bush, George" as an answer for a US President beginning with "B."

Get creative. You can be flexible with your answers. Other players can challenge you, though, and answers that fail a group vote won't count toward your score.

Write each answer on your Scattergories scorepad. When time's up, immediately stop writing.

Scoring/Winning:

Players take turns reading their lists. Cross out any answers that matched another player's. Players score one point for each answer not crossed out.

Award extra points for alliteration. (Horrible spelling aside, Krispy Kremes would earn two points for a rolled "K" in the "Breakfast Foods" category).

Trivial Pursuit

Pick something from around your home to use as your game piece

Roll a dice and move your piece that many spaces

Whatever color you land on determine which question you get asked from another player

Have someone ask you the question

If you get the question right, you get a point.

If you get it right, you get to go again.

Whoever gets a total of 6 points wins!

If you land on a dice, that means you must roll again
